3. Trading procedures

- 3.1. Margin requirements vary based on the Underlying Financial Products. See the Market Information Sheet at www.cccapital.ky details on specific CFD products.
- 3.2. Margin Warnings and Margin Calls
 - a) With respect to overnight trades, a necessary Margin of 100 per cent or above is required to maintain an overnight position.

Furthermore, to carry positions over the weekend or market holidays, full margin is required. If full margin is not available then positions will automatically be liquidated at the closing market price until full margin is met for remaining positions.
 - b) With respect to day trades, whenever in a trading day the effective Margin drops below 100 per cent of the necessary Margin, you will receive a warning email informing you of this. A further warning email will be sent to inform you if the effective Margin drops below 50 per cent and 30 per cent. At 25 per cent your positions will automatically be liquidated until Margin requirements are fully met for all remaining positions.
 - c) Whenever the effective Margin in the account is not sufficient to support the taking of new positions, but for any reason the account was permitted to take such new positions, the taking of such positions will be considered as over-trading. For all overtrades, you must deposit the additional necessary Margin immediately. In the absence of such an immediate deposit, we will in our sole and absolute discretion use any available means, including using an unfavourable price, to settle the over - trading positions.

d) For each price quote a minimum and maximum number of contracts per order will be accepted by us. This will be instrument specific and shown on the order entry window on the platform.

e) Limit orders can be placed only when the price shown on CCC's price provider's screen is at a certain distance from the desired limit price, and only after confirmation that the order has been accepted for execution. The order as placed must indicate either "higher" or "lower" within the specified limit price. This will be instrument specific and shown on the order entry window on the platform.

f) Cancellation by you of limit orders can be effected only when the limit order has not yet been executed and will be effective only when the order of cancellation is confirmed by us.

g) Automatic cancellation of orders may occur earlier if we decide in our absolute discretion that market volatility is significant due to the release of major financial and economic data and other special fundamental events.

h) We will accept orders for, and execute, Transactions only during open trading hours of the specific Underlying Financial Product (see the Contract Specification at www.cccapital.ky).

i) We reserve the right, for any reason, in our sole and absolute discretion, to refuse or reject any orders placed for any account, irrespective of whether the account is then under-margined or not.

j) We reserve the right, in our sole and absolute discretion, to rescind any Transaction where the price quoted or executed was quoted in error, whether due to human effort or as a result of a technical problem. A price will be deemed to be quoted in error if it is different from the price that we would normally have quoted at the time when you requested it, taking into account all relevant factors.

k) All contract price information relayed by us to you that is supplied by third party data providers shall be deemed to be indicative only, and shall be used exclusively for reference purposes only.

l) No Transaction positions can be transferred between your trading accounts, and no account can be transferred or changed to another party's name.

SCHEDULE 2

FX

1. SCOPE

- 1.1. The provisions in this Schedule apply to Transactions in FX.
- 1.2. Our Transactions in FX with you will normally constitute a spot transaction in respect of currency pair exchange rates unless we agree expressly that delivery of the relevant currencies is contemplated in a particular Transaction. Spot transactions are due for delivery two days after dealing however, as a service to our customers, we will automatically roll clients' positions over every day until they are closed out and delivery will not normally occur unless we agree expressly that delivery of the relevant currency will occur in relation to a particular Transaction. If delivery of the currency does occur you will be liable to make or to receive delivery of the currency and to pay for all associated costs.
- 1.3. You should be aware that the product information contained in this Schedule is not necessarily a comprehensive description of all aspects of the product. Additionally, specific products may be tailored for a particular client or market and may differ in detail from the outline set out in this Schedule. The terms of the particular Transactions will prevail over the product description and information given in this disclosure.

2. IMPORTANT: RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH DEALING IN FX

- 2.1. This Schedule does not disclose all of the risks in dealing in FX. You should not deal in FX unless you understand the nature of the contract you are entering into and the extent of your exposure to risk. You should also be satisfied that the contract is suitable for you in the light of your circumstances and financial position. Importantly you should only trade FX on margin if you are prepared to sustain a total loss of the money you have invested plus any commission or other Transaction charges.
- 2.2. The risk of loss in dealing in FX can be substantial and it is possible to lose more than your initial investment. If the market moves against your position, you may be called upon to deposit a substantial amount of additional margin funds, on short notice, in order to maintain your position. If you do not provide the required funds within the time required by us, your position may be liquidated at a loss, and you will be liable for any resulting deficit in your account.

- 2.3. Placing contingent orders, such as “stop-loss” or “stop-limit” orders, will not necessarily limit your losses to the intended amounts, since market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.
- 2.4. The leverage often obtainable in FX trading means that a small margin can lead to large losses as well as gains. It also means that a relatively small movement can lead to a proportionately much larger movement in the value of your investment, and this can work against you as well as for you.
- 2.5. There are costs associated with financing positions held overnight. These costs (which are mentioned at section 8) are an important aspect of trading in FX and must be taken into account by you in advance of deciding whether to trade.
- 2.6. Any payments made or received in relation to any investment may be subject to tax and you should seek professional advice in this respect.
- 2.7. In light of the above you should consider carefully whether or not this product is suitable for you in light of your circumstances and financial position, and if in any doubt please seek professional advice.

3. FX

- 3.1. In respect of every Transaction made between us we shall act as principal with you.
- 3.2. Transactions in FX involve you taking a position with regard to what you consider the price of one currency will be against the price of another currency in the future. In order to do this you will trade in a currency pair with us, for example Euro/US Dollar (EUR/USD) or US Dollar/Japanese Yen (USD/JPY). A list of some examples of the currency pairs that we offer is at our website www.cccapital.ky.
- 3.3. Currency pairings are expressed as two codes usually separated by a division symbol (for example, GBP/USD), the first representing the “base currency” and the other the “secondary currency”. The price quoted is the value of the secondary currency expressed in terms of one unit of the base currency. For example $\text{GBP/USD} = 2.0045$ denotes that one unit of sterling (the base currency) can be exchanged for 2.0045 US dollars (the secondary currency). The prices that we quote for each currency pair are normally labelled as the “Bid Price” and the “Offer Price”.

- 3.4. The Bid Price is the price that we will pay you in the secondary currency for the position in the base currency. The Offer Price is the price you will pay us in the secondary currency for the position in the base currency. The Bid Price will always be less than the Offer Price. The difference between the Bid and the Offer price is known as the “Spread”. We make a profit from the spread. In general the wider the Spread the greater our profit.
- 3.5. You can take a view on the price of the base currency increasing by “Going Long” or you can take a view on the price of the base currency decreasing by “Going Short”. For example, if you consider that the price of Sterling will increase against the price of the US Dollar you will decide to take a position with us where you will Go Long (or buy) GBP/USD. If, by contrast, you consider that the price of Sterling will drop against the price of the US Dollar you will decide to take a position with us whereby you Go Short or sell GBP/USD.
- 3.6. If you were Going Long, the opening price of the currency pair would be fixed at our Offer Price. If our Bid Price at the end of the contract is greater than our Offer Price at the commencement of the contract then, subject to the deduction of applicable charges, you will receive a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units of the base currency by the difference between the opening Offer Price and the closing Bid Price of the currency pair. However, if the Bid Price for the currency pair at the end of the contract does not exceed the Offer Price for the currency pair at the commencement of the contract you will be required to pay us a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units of the base currency by the difference between the opening Offer Price and the closing Bid Price of the currency pair. Regardless of how the price of the currency pair moves you will also be required to pay us applicable interest charges, ticket charges in respect of certain platforms (which you will be notified about separately), and Tom-Next financing charges (see section 8).
- 3.7. If however you were Going Short, the opening price of the currency pair would be fixed at our Bid Price. If the Offer Price of the currency pair at the end of the contract is less than the Bid Price at the commencement of the contract then, subject to the deduction of applicable charges, you will receive a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units of the base currency by the difference between the opening Bid Price and the closing Offer Price of the currency pair. However, if the Offer Price for the currency pair at the end of the contract exceeds the Bid Price for the currency pair at the commencement of the contract you will be required to pay us a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units of the base currency by the difference between the opening Bid Price and the closing Offer Price of the currency pair. Again, regardless of how the price of the currency pair moves you will also be required to pay us applicable interest charges, ticket charges in respect of certain platforms (which you will be notified about separately), and Tom-Next financing charges (see section 8).

- 3.8. Whenever any Transaction is entered into to close out any existing Transaction, then the obligations of each of us under both sets of Transactions shall automatically and immediately be terminated upon entering into the second Transaction, except for any settlement difference payment due in respect of such closed out Transactions.

4. MARGIN AND LEVERAGE

- 4.1. By trading in FX with us you will be required to provide a certain amount of margin and we will then leverage that margin. This exposes you to a high degree of risk. Leverage is the amount, expressed as a multiple, by which the notional amount traded exceeds the margin required to trade.
- 4.2. We will advise you of the amount of margin and the amount of leverage that we will require on a Transaction by Transaction basis via the Market Information Sheet. If the price of the currency pair moves against your interests you may be called upon to deposit additional margin at short notice and we may close out your position without notice if we do not receive the additional margin from you.

5. STOP, LIMIT LOSS AND TAKE PROFIT ORDERS

Subject to your Individually Agreed Terms Schedule you may be able to agree with us to limit your losses while trading FX by using stop loss, limit loss or take profit orders. These facilities may help you limit your exposure to us and we strongly recommend that you consider the use of such facilities.

- 5.1. Orders are often attached to open positions, either to be triggered in the event of an adverse market move, in which case they are known as stop-loss orders, or to be triggered by a favourable market move to allow profits to be taken. These orders are triggered for execution based upon our price.

- 5.2. A sell order will be triggered if our bid price reaches or falls below the specified order price, a buy order will be triggered if our price reaches or rises above the specified price.
- 5.3. In most cases, when an order is triggered it will be executed at or very close to the specified order price but this is not guaranteed and the execution price may be markedly different to the specified order price as a result of price movement in the underlying instrument.
- 5.4. If you leave multiple orders with us in the same underlying market, with the same specified order price and with a size greater than our maximum size, there is no guarantee that all of those orders will be executed at the same price.

6. NETTING

Any Transaction to which this Schedule applies shall, subject as follows, be deemed included in the definition of “Netting Transaction” for the purposes of this Agreement and subject to termination and liquidation under the clause headed “Netting” (the “Netting Clause”) following an Event of Default.

7. TRADING TIMES

Please refer to the Market Information Sheet for trading times of our various markets.

8. INTEREST

- 8.1. Positions in FX which are rolled over from one trading day to the next will incur financing based upon the interest rate differentials between the currencies in the currency pair. The interest rate applied is described as “Tom-Next” which is an abbreviation for Tomorrow or the Next business day because the first value date is tomorrow or the next business day. The Tom-Next price reflects the applicable interest rate between Tom-Next and the spot value date in respect of the currency in question.
- 8.2. You pay interest on the currency that you are short on and you receive interest in the currency that you are long on. For example, if you are long on the GBP/USD pair you will receive interest on Sterling and you will pay interest on the US Dollar. If Sterling has a higher interest rate than the US Dollar then you will receive a net interest payment but if Sterling has a lower interest rate than the US Dollar then you will pay out a net interest amount. The Tom-Next price offered to you will differ depending on whether you are Going Long or Going Short. CCC may make a profit from the difference in the Tom-Next price offered to persons Going Long and the Tom-Next price offered to persons Going Short.

CONTRACTS FOR DIFFERENCES

1. SCOPE

- 1.1. The provisions in this Schedule apply to Transactions in CFDs.
- 1.2. Our Transactions in CFDs with you will normally constitute “contracts for differences” (as described in article 85 of the Financial Services and Markets Act 2000 (Regulated Activities) Order 2001) in respect of the value of an underlying instrument, for example a quoted share in a company, index or commodity (the “Underlying Product”). Delivery of the Underlying Product is not contemplated and you do not own the Underlying Product.
- 1.3. You should be aware that the product information contained in this Schedule is not necessarily a comprehensive description of all aspects of the product. Additionally, specific products may be tailored for a particular client or market and may differ in detail from the outline set out in this Schedule. The terms of the particular Transactions will prevail over the product description and information given in this disclosure.

2. IMPORTANT: RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH DEALING IN CFDs

- 2.1. This Schedule does not disclose all of the risks in dealing in CFDs. You should not deal in CFDs unless you understand the nature of the contract you are entering into and the extent of your exposure to risk. You should also be satisfied that the contract is suitable for you in the light of your circumstances and financial position. Importantly you should only trade CFDs on margin if you are prepared to sustain a total loss of the money you have invested plus any commission or other Transaction charges.
- 2.2. The risk of loss in dealing in CFDs can be substantial and it is possible to lose more than your initial investment. If the market moves against your position, you may be called upon to deposit a substantial amount of additional margin funds, on short notice, in order to maintain your position. If you do not provide the required funds within the time required by us, your position may be liquidated at a loss, and you will be liable for any resulting deficit in your account.

- 2.3. Placing contingent orders, such as “stop-loss” or “stop-limit” orders, will not necessarily limit your losses to the intended amounts, since market conditions may make it impossible to execute such orders.
- 2.4. The leverage often obtainable in trading CFDs means that a small margin can lead to large losses as well as gains. It also means that a relatively small movement can lead to a proportionately much larger movement in the value of your investment, and this can work against you as well as for you.
- 2.5. There are costs associated with financing positions held overnight. These costs (which are mentioned at section 11) are an important aspect of trading in CFDs and must be taken into account by you in advance of deciding whether to trade.
- 2.6. Any payments made or received in relation to any investment may be subject to tax and you should seek professional advice in this respect.
- 2.7. In light of the above you should consider carefully whether or not this product is suitable for you in light of your circumstances and financial position, and if in any doubt please seek professional advice.

3. CFDs

- 3.1. In respect of every Transaction made between us we shall act as principal with you.
- 3.2. Transactions in CFDs involve a contract between you and us whereby you agree with us to exchange, when the contract ends, the difference between the opening price of the Underlying Product and the closing price of the Underlying Product multiplied by the number of units detailed in the contract. If the price of the Underlying Product moves in your favour then you will receive the difference from us. Alternatively, if the price of the Underlying Product moves against you will pay the difference to us. Regardless of how the price of the Underlying Product moves you will also be required to pay us commission, interest charges on positions held overnight, and additional margin (“Variation Margin”) depending on how the value of the Underlying Product moves each day.
- 3.3. You can take a view on the price of the Underlying Product increasing by “Going Long” or you can take a view on the price of the Underlying Product decreasing by “Going Short”. The prices that we quote for each CFD are normally labelled as the “Bid Price” and the “Offer Price”. The Bid Price will always be less than the Offer Price. The difference between the Bid Price and the Offer Price is known as the “Spread”. We make a profit from the Spread. In general the wider the Spread the greater our profit.

- 3.4. If you were Going Long, the opening price of the units in the Underlying Product would be fixed at our Offer Price. If our Bid Price at the end of the contract is greater than our Offer Price at the commencement of the contract then, subject to the deduction of applicable charges, you will receive a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units that the contract represents by the difference between the Offer Price at the beginning of the contract and the Bid Price at the end of the contract. However, if the Bid Price at the end of the contract does not exceed the Offer Price at the commencement of the contract you will be required to pay us a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units that the contract represents by the difference between the Offer Price at the beginning of the contract and the Bid Price at the end of the contract. Regardless of how the price of the Underlying Product moves you will also be required to pay us commission, applicable interest charges and Variation Margin.
- 3.5. If however you were Going Short, the opening price of the units in the Underlying Product would be fixed at our Bid Price. If the Offer Price at the end of the contract is less than the Bid Price at the commencement of the contract then, subject to the deduction of applicable charges, you will receive a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units that the contract represents by the difference between the Bid Price at the beginning of the contract and the Offer Price at the end of the contract. However, if the Offer Price at the end of the contract is greater than the Bid Price at the commencement of the contract you will be required to pay us a sum calculated by multiplying the number of units that the contract represents by the difference between the Bid Price at the beginning of the contract and the Offer Price at the end of the contract. Again, regardless of how the price of the Underlying Product moves you will also be required to pay us commission, applicable interest charges and Variation Margin.
- 3.6. A list of some of the Underlying Products that we offer CFDs in respect of is available on our website www.cccapital.ky. We will consider offering CFDs on other instruments on request.
- 3.7. Whenever any Transaction is entered into to close out any existing Transaction, then the obligations of each of us under both sets of Transactions shall automatically and immediately be terminated upon entering into the second Transaction, except for any settlement difference payment due in respect of such closed out Transactions.

4. MARGIN AND LEVERAGE

- 4.1. By trading in CFDs with us you will be required to provide a certain amount of margin and we will then leverage that margin. This exposes you to a high degree of risk. Leverage is the amount, expressed as a multiple, by which the notional amount traded exceeds the margin required to trade.
- 4.2. We will advise you of the amount of margin that we will require on a Transaction by Transaction basis. If the price of the Underlying Product moves against your interests you may be called upon to deposit additional margin at short notice and we may close out your position without notice if we do not receive the additional margin from you.

5. STOP, LIMIT LOSS & TAKE PROFIT ORDERS

You may be able to agree with us to limit your losses while trading CFDs by using stop loss, limit loss or take profit orders. These facilities may help you limit your exposure to us and we strongly recommend that you consider the use of such facilities.

5.1. Orders are often attached to open positions, either to be triggered in the event of an adverse market move, in which case they are known as stop-loss orders, or to be triggered by a favourable market move to allow profits to be taken. These orders are triggered for execution based upon our price.

5.2. A sell order will be triggered if our bid price reaches or falls below the specified order price, a buy order will be triggered if our price reaches or rises above the specified price.

5.3. In most cases, when an order is triggered it will be executed at or very close to the specified order price but this is not guaranteed and the execution price may be markedly different to the specified order price as a result of price movement in the underlying instrument.

5.4. If you leave multiple orders with us in the same underlying market, with the same specified order price and with a size greater than our maximum size, there is no guarantee that all of those orders will be executed at the same price.

6. STAMP DUTY

Currently, persons acquiring CFDs are not required to pay stamp duty.

7. EQUITY CFDS: DIVIDENDS AND COMPANY MEETINGS

- 7.1. You will receive payment in lieu of dividends to long equity CFD positions and you will be required to make payment to us in lieu of dividends from short CFD positions.
- 7.2. An equity CFD holder is not entitled to vote at any company meeting.

8. NETTING

Any Transaction to which this Schedule applies shall, subject as follows, be deemed included in the definition of "Netting Transaction" for the purposes of this Agreement and subject to termination and liquidation under the clause headed "Netting" (the "Netting Clause") following an Event of Default.

9. TRADING TIMES

In respect of most CFDs we will quote prices in CFDs when the market for the Underlying Product is open.

10. COMMISSION

We charge commission in respect of some CFDs. The terms of the commission will be agreed individually with you.

11. INTEREST

We charge interest on leverage in respect of some long positions held overnight and we pay interest in respect of some short positions held overnight. Whether we will charge (or pay) interest, and the rate of the interest, will be agreed individually with you. The rate of interest offered to you may differ depending on whether you are Going Long or Going Short. CCC may make a profit from the difference in the interest offered to persons Going Long and the rate of interest offered to persons Going Short.
